

First, unscrew the original car screws in the red circle and loosen the original car screws in the yellow circle (note: no need to completely remove). Next, the two notches of the skid plate are stuck to the screws, and then the two original screws removed before are used to tighten the skid plate corresponding to the body holes.